THE GOLDEN AGE OF NEW ENGLAND

Paper Written by Mrs. A. E. 🛭 Herrick for the Library High School last Saturday by a score Institute

This makes no pretentions to being a proper, well-ordered paper. It is simply a talk, what I should like to say if I were so fortunate as to have each of you come to make me a call, and we should fall to chatting upon those most fascinating of topics, books and auth. 4-13-tf. ors, old and new. I say now-before you have a chance to discover it for yourself—that there is no method in it. It never would have been, had Miss Thurston not been insistent and I, as clay in her hands. It is frankly remi niscent, and what languid interest it may possess, is, therefore, not for the young, to whom it will doubtless be a stumbling blook and foolishness,

The other day I was talking with a friend who said she was sorry for the young people of this day because they had not had familiarity with the liternture upon which we were reared. Whereupon we fell to enumerating the 2 Mechanic Street, Bethel, Maine. disadvantages accruing to the youth of the present age. . I am exactly as old as the Atlantic Monthly, and I have seen the world revolutionized in my time. I was born, and grew up, in a New England village, like this, except for coast habits and traditions, But typical of New England life in the time, which I maintain was its Golden Age. We had passed, in villages, the age of spinning and weaving, but our stockings were hand knitted. The sewing was done wholly by hand, except that our next door neighbor had a tiny sewing machine which was scrowed on to a table and run by turning a crank, and it was viewed with suspicion. Shoots wore in two breadths scamed together over and over, with broad homs on each end, These symbolize the simplicity of the ife, which was equally primitive in every particular. But what possible conwith books and reading! Much. Betwo o'clock in the afternoon, as was Heels. their custom, to those interminable ing turns in reading aloud.

ive votes. It is such majorities that has been electing the Democratic Congress man in this district. With a full reali zation of this and in an effort to make the party again dominant in the district, Lewiston Republicans began the work of reorganization in the municipal campaign of 1915. They persuaded Mr. White to be the candidate for Mayor. In that fight he received more than 2000 votes. He was again a candidate this year, and the Republican vote was increased to more than 2200. In a year's time under his leadership the voting strength of the party in Lewiston has been doubled. He has twice in succession received a larger vote than was ever before cast for any Republican candidate in Lewiston. The party has become a militant organization, respected and feared by the Democracy. Lewiston Republicans urac that what they have accomplished merits recognition. They believe that Mr. McGillicuddy can be beaten if the vote thrown for Mr. White in the last two elections in Lewiston is even approximated in the coming campaign. They believe the fight should be made in Lewiston and Androscoggin County, and they insist that good politics call for the nomination of the candidate for Congress to whom the Republicans and independent voters of Lewiston have twice given such evidence of loyalty.

It is believed that not only would Mr. White's nomination be acceptable to the Republicans who have remained steadfast during the trials of the recent years, but would also be satisfactory to many Progressives throughout the district. The Lewiston Journal which represents this latter element, in commenting upon Mr. White's announcement of his candidacy, said of "Mr. White was born in Lewiston,

THE CHANGING OF THE BEABONS. How swiftly our spring time is flying, Onward, on the wings of flight, And we hear the trentops softly sighing, Summer sure is now in sight.

And as the summer wind Comes softly flying, Then we say that Autumn is not far nway, Could we always keep it summer?

Now that nummer's gone and Autumn Puts on its bright array, And we gather in our harvest, Then we hear them gently say, Growing colder now and winter Boon will hold us in her sway,

Ahl we know not what to say,

You, the winter new is hurrying, Each and overy flake of snow To make every moment merry, As the breezes come and go, So, the year goes quickly speeding, Onto realms of endless time, And we know not yet the mystery Of death, nor life, sublime.

The Department of Agriculture of Washington, D. C., in Farmers' Bulletin No. 687, recommends the following means of reducing these pasture-wasting pests:

POULTRY VICES. By G. E. Conkey.

Harmful vices acquired by poultry are not many but if these are left to develop in the flock the result will be a very discouraging situation and in some instances you may find it necessary to dispose of a large number of birds. It is a good thing to know these vices and to understand the reasons for them so that they may be recognized right at the start for then it is easy to correct them because there are only a few birds involved.

cream testing 30 to 35 per cent should be used. As soon as milk is separated the cream should be cooled immediately by placing cream in a deep, narrow pail or a shot-gun can and put this in cold water just pumped from the well, or by placing in a water tank. Warm cream should never be mixed with cold as this causes souring in a very short time. The cream should be kept cool until a few hours before churning, when it should be taken out and allowed to sour naturally or by use of commercial starter. The best temperature for allowing this cream to sour is 70 to 80 degrees F. When sufficient acid or sourness has developed the cream is again cooled down to churning temperature. The proper amount of acidity depends upon kind of cream; quality of butter desired and churning temperature. As a rule from 4 to 5 per cent acid is the desired amount.

The cream should be allowed to stand about two hours at churning temperat same temperature. For ordinary farm churning a temperature from 60 to 70 degrees F is best. He has been our only president since the festival was organized nineteen years ago. He has always been ready with his wise council, and encouragement to me in every way. Even when discouraged many times, he was always most optimistic as to the future of this great State educational uplift for music in Maine. The success that the festival has attained during his nineteen years of service, is in no small measure due to his untiring, unselfish assistance. His love for music has made him ever ready to help those interested in the same. He was always for the chorus first and last. Many times he would eny to me: "It is interesting to hear the wonderful artists that you bring, but it is the chorus I enjoy the most, and his loss will be most keenly felt by every member of the various chorus throughout. RESOLUTIONS.

At the Oxford County W. C. T. U. Convention the following resolutions were passed:

The twenty-ninth annual Convention of the Oxford County Woman's Christian Temperanco Union, here assemb led, once more would acknowledge our dependence upon a Higher Power for guldance and wisdom in the grand work we are striving to do, and we would lift our hearts in gratitude for Resolved, That we still adhere to the principal of total abstinence as the only safe one to promote happiness. Resolved, That we believe prohibition to be the best method for abolishing the liquor tradic, and that we will work to sustain the Maine prohibitory law and for the election of officers who will sustain and enforce that law, and for national prohibition.

Resolved, That as the future of our land depends upon the next generation, we as united Christian mothers will extend the educational and preventive work of our society among all the children and youth we can reach, begin ning in our own homes and reaching out through the Sunday schools and Resolved, That we are in hearty sympathy with every effort for peace, and by the Lotus Male Quartette of Boston, pray that speedily all nations may unite in instituting a permanent worldwide peace. Resolved, That we are in favor of universal suffrage, and that we will educate and egitate until equal rights in citizenship are granted to women. Resolved, That we express our very
